GIVING TO CAUSES OUTSIDE OF FOCUS AREAS

- The UPS Foundation does not accept unsolicited grant requests. The best way to engage UPS locally is through the participation of UPS volunteers.
- Arts & Culture – May be supported through local community investment grants and/or charitable sponsorships if the cause addresses unique community needs and if there is extraordinary engagement by UPS volunteers. Otherwise, not supported through direct grants from the Foundation.
- Health, Diseases & Human Services – UPS supports United Way, the world’s largest human services organization, which provides these services. In addition, health and disease-related causes may be supported through local community investment grants and/or charitable sponsorships if the cause addresses unique community needs and if there is extraordinary engagement by UPS volunteers. Otherwise, not supported through direct grants from the Foundation.
- Early Youth Development and Education & Family Programs – In the U.S., early childhood education and family programs are supported through our United Way partnership and are funding priorities for the Annie E. Casey Foundation, established by UPS’s founder. In addition, may be supported through local community investment grants and/or charitable sponsorships if the cause addresses unique community needs and if there is extraordinary engagement by UPS volunteers. Otherwise, not supported through direct grants from the Foundation.
- Faith-based Organizations – May be supported through local community investment grants as long as programs funded are inclusive of all denominations and do not discriminate against anyone in the communities they serve.
- Animal-related Causes – Reviewed on a case-by-case basis. The Foundation prioritizes its limited resources on programs that directly support human welfare and impact the human condition.
- In-kind Shipping – The UPS Foundation provides in-kind transportation to our Humanitarian Relief & Resilience Program partners. These established partnerships ensure that UPS can make a critical difference in communities affected by disaster or other crises. UPS does not transport collection drive items or ship items for individuals. Product donors should go to www.good360.org to view the needs of relief agencies active in response and recovery efforts.
